As Georgia Drive Begins . . .

Foundations Join in Support of College

An anonymous challenge grant of $300,000 gives a strong send-off to the Georgia Synod campaign which is seeking $4 million for Presbyterian College and six other church agencies.

This gift included, the initial campaign results now stand at $444,586.

The $300,000 incentive grant is dependent upon the successful completion of the campaign. PC will receive $200,000 of the grant as part of the College's $1½ million designated share of the total campaign goal.

Meanwhile five other foundations in different parts of the country have made recent gifts to Presbyterian.

FRANKLIN FOUNDATION: $50,000

The John and Mary Franklin Foundation of Atlanta is presenting $50,000 toward the physical development of the College.

This amount underwrites the cost of the main physics laboratory in the new science hall, which was completed during the past year. Foundation trustees designated the gift in honor of the foundation co-founders, Mrs. Mary Franklin, and the late John Franklin, Atlanta business and church leader before his death. Mrs. Franklin continues her active work in behalf of Atlanta's Peachtree Presbyterian Church.

GENERAL ELECTRIC: $14,828

The General Electric Foundation has given the PC chemistry department a $14,828 grant for the purchase of a General Electric Recording Spectrophotometer, one of just two such grants being made by General Electric this year.

The new visible recording spectrophotometer measures the absorption of the various wavelengths of light both transmitted and reflected. It will supplement the department's present infrared spectrophotometer and other instruments in giving PC top-flight laboratory facilities for use at all levels of chemistry instruction, freshman through senior.

TULL FOUNDATION: $5,000

The Tull Foundation of Atlanta adds $5,000 to the Presbyterian College development program with its grant made by the trustees for unrestricted use by the College.

The foundation bears the name of the late J. M. Tull, Southern industrial leader and founder of the J. M. Tull Metal and Supply Co.

TEXACO: $1,500

Another $1,500 grant has come to PC from the Texaco Foundation through its 1966 aid-to-education program.

This represents the third consecutive year that Texaco has made gifts of this denomination to the College for unrestricted use.

GULF: $1,000

Gulf is another national oil company that has provided gen-

PC Ranked High By National Rating

Presbyterian College is ranked among the top 25 private institutions in the South and Southwest by a national rating organization.

PC stands 23rd in the group headed by Rice, Duke and Vanderbilt as chosen by "The College Rater" of Allentown, Pa. It is the only college in South Carolina included in this select listing.

In seeking to designate the leading American colleges and universities, the rating service set up a number of criteria which included: admissions standards, proportion of students entering graduate school, student-faculty ratio, library collections, proportion of faculty with doctorates.

erous support through the years to the PC program.

The latest grant from the Gulf Foundation is a $1,000 contribution without designation for the general strengthening of the institution.

FEDERAL GRANT: $17,286

A matching grant of $17,286 has been received under the Federal Educational Facilities Act for capital improvements.

The funds, designated to boost the educational program, will be matched by the College and the total amount used to install a second language laboratory and to provide equipment for the economics department laboratory.

An experienced line moving in front of backfield speed and passing ability could give Presbyterian College Coach Cally Gault in 1966 the best football campaign since he assumed direction three years ago.

He seeks to improve on his .500 record of the past two seasons with a schedule that includes six games on the home field, where PC has won nine straight. Blue Hose teams have not been whipped on Johnson Field since mid-season of 1963.

Whether or not the victory string can be kept intact against a strong invading slate, Presbyterian expects to present one of its most colorful teams in recent years. It will feature a wide-open varied-T attack built around the passing arm of sophomore Quarterback Bill Kirtland of Miami. As a freshman in varsity play last year, Kirtland set a new first-year record of 903 aerial yards on 67 completions in 133 attempts.

Heading up the PC running game will be Fullback Sam Williams, first-team All-South Carolina fullback from Monroeville, Ala. He's an explosive ball-carrier who has averaged better than 4 yards-per-carry his previous two years. Sharing the rushing game with Williams will be three fast letterman halfbacks in the persons of Co-Captain Jim Johnson of Georgiana, Ala., sprinter Dan Eckstein of Atlanta and Bob Hackle of Winnsboro, S. C. These three also are sure-fingered pass-receivers.

The big backfield question-mark is on defense, where the problem is lack of experience and depth. It appears that halfbacks Johnson, Eckstein and Hackle will be forced to play both offense and defense, although Pat Stogner of Lancaster, S. C., and Olin Grant of Chester, S. C., should carry some of the defensive load.

The interior line from tackle to tackle is strong enough to permit the two platoon system for the first time in years. It's headed by two Atlanta tackles: Co-Captain John Monk, a versatile 200-pound senior who made second team All-State last year; and Sam Lyons, quick and agile at 210 pounds and ready for his best year. Tommy Campbell of Dillon, S. C., the team's largest at 250 pounds, Jim Helms of Dublin,

Football '66:

Prospects Brighter With Six Home Games

Ga., and Ed Walker of Forest Park, Ga., are the other letterman tackles.

Four letterman guards and a capable sophomore secure this position. Bob Warren of Allendale, S. C., returns for his fourth year as an ace line-backer. Allan Harris of Florence, S. C., has established himself as a middle guard, while Bob Murray of Columbus, Ga., and Jack McCaskill of Orlando, Fla., also are experienced hands. Ready to go both ways at guard is speedy Jim Sullenberger of Charleston Heights, S. C.

Center provides less experience, with only Mickey Hampshire of Atlanta returning as a letterman. He'll get assistance from Bobby Byard of Charleston Heights.

Out on the flank, the big man is James Smith, co-captain senior from Sylvania, Ga., who will play as close to 60 minutes as possible. Besides being a talented pass-receiver, he can be extremely tough defensively. The other two letterman ends are: Richard Reed of Columbus, Ga., an unusually fine flanker on offense; and Joe Lawson of Union, S. C., defensive stalwart.

Except for Campbell, the PC forward wall is described as light, but it should be quicker. Although appraised as stronger than last year by assistant coaches Billy Tiller and Joe Nixon, the line does lack depth at offensive center and the middle guard and experience at the linebacker positions.

A bright addition to the coaching staff this fall is Bob Waters, star of PC's 1959 Tangerine Bowl team, who has spent the past five seasons as a quarterback with the professional San Francisco 'Forty-Niners.

Founder's Scholarship Winners

Seven topflight high school graduates from three states are entering PC this fall as Founder's Scholars, distinctive in academic achievement and scholastic promise.

They were chosen from a select group of 19 finalists brought to the PC campus last spring for tests, interviews and a program of entertainment. As winners, they will receive grants ranging from $1,200 to $5,600 each for the four years of study.

The seven recipients, chosen on the basis of intellect, leadership and character, are: Margaret Ellison of Greenville; James Hills of Myrtle Beach; Nancy Morgan of Atlanta; Marsha Montgomery of Rome, Ga.; Marion Myers of Orlando, Fla.; Susan Smith of Carlisle; and John B. Taylor of Chester.

Rising high school seniors are reminded that competition for the 1967 Founder's Scholarships is now open with applications due by December 20, 1966. Information may be obtained from the PC admissions office.

Taxes and Deferred Gifts

To supplement Presbyterian College's fund-raising activities, the development office has inaugurated an Educational Gift Program. Its purpose is to show alumni and friends how to reduce taxes by utilizing favorable tax law provisions and how gifts may be carefully planned to fit into the program.

A quarterly publication, entitled "The Economy of Giving," explains tested plans for educational giving which will enable you to make a deferred gift to PC while providing a better financial future for you and your family.

You may receive copies of this publication by notifying the development office at Presbyterian College.

$40,000 Worth:

Recent Scholarship Funds Given To Establish Student Aid Programs

Scholarship funds totaling approximately $40,000 have been given to Presbyterian College recently to endow grants that will assist worthy young men and women to further their education here.

STABLES GIVE $20,000

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn C. Stables of Spartanburg, S. C., established a $20,000 fund to assist those students who show special promise in the fields of music and academic pursuits and who have need of financial aid. As part of the invested endowment, the fund will provide annual income for this purpose.

The program is designated the Glenn and Mary Stables Scholarship Fund. Mr. Stables has been an officer of the Spartanburg First Presbyterian Church for many years, and Mrs. Stables is active in this work.

ALLAN BEQUEST: $13,525

A legacy of $13,525 has been left to PC by the late Miss Amey Allan of Charleston, S. C. It goes to the William P. Jacobs Memorial Scholarship Fund, established by Miss Allan several years ago in memory of the founder of PC.

With earlier gifts included, the fund now stands at $15,000 within the permanent endowment and helps to underwrite the annual cost of the Founder's Scholarships, which are awarded on academic merit. Miss Allan died at her Charleston home at age 92 on September 2, 1965. During her lifetime, she was an active member of the Second Presbyterian Church there.

ALLISON FUND

Underscoring their interest in young people, Mr. and Mrs. J. Barnwell Allison of Lancaster, S. C., are establishing a grant fund that will be known as the James Barnwell Allison and Mary Blair Allison Scholarship.

An initial gift has just been made and subsequent gifts are planned to perpetuate this scholarship within the College endowment. Annual interest will be used to assist students studying to enter the ministry. Both Mr. and Mrs. Allison are active in the work of the Lancaster First Presbyterian Church.

S. C. ELECTRIC & GAS: $500

The second annual $500 grant from the South Carolina Electric and Gas Company has been received as part of the company's scholarship program among the 22 four-year accredited colleges of the state.

This amount is given to the current scholarship budget for use by needy students in the upper-third of their previous class who reside in the 23 counties served by the South Carolina Electric and Gas Company.

Annual Giving Halfway Toward $100,000 Goal

Subscriptions totaling $45,000 put PC's Annual Giving program near the half-way mark in late August in seeking a record $100,000 for 1965.

The pace runs ahead of this date last year, when alumni and friends responded in unprecedented numbers to produce a new high of $93,273. Almost 40% of the alumni body participated then.

Statistics show that thus far 685 donors have subscribed the $45,000. Of this amount, $12,000 has been designated for the Walter Johnson Club, alumni athletic organization.

The main purpose of the Annual Giving program is to help underwrite current operating costs of the College.
